

Advantage Credit Inc. Joins Forces with First Line Data

Advantage Credit Inc. announces strategic partnership with First Line Data to offer mortgage lenders bundled services for both TPO and borrower risk assessment.

Leading mortgage credit reporting company, Advantage Credit Inc., has announced a strategic partnership with business analytics provider and fraud prevention company, First Line Data. Together the companies will be able to offer wholesale and warehouse lenders the benefits of bundled pricing packages for business background screening reports used for TPO and warehouse line approval in combination with a wide range of credit reporting services at the wholesale or retail level.

“For 18 years Advantage Credit has provided extraordinary credit reporting tools and resources to the mortgage industry, and we at First Line Data are excited to begin a valuable and meaningful relationship with such an outstanding service provider,” said Kellan Flynn, Director of Operations at First Line Data. “We are excited to bring together our resources and provide the mortgage industry with risk assessment tools on both the originator side and the borrower side, offering lenders a wide range of tools along with better operating efficiency.”

“We anticipate great benefit from being able to pair our credit reporting services with First Line Data’s suite of INSIGHT reports, said Jim Kaiser, Sales Director of Advantage Credit. Providing a very high level of service has always been the focus for us at Advantage Credit. We are proud to have this alliance with another company that has made its name by providing exceptional service to mortgage lenders.”
